

Market Recap – 2/12/25

We had a strong market today, with the biggest turnout of buyers so far this year.

Our Parker cattle performed exceptionally well, and overall, beef cows and bulls held steady compared to last week. Dairy cattle also remained steady, while high-quality bred cows saw a very strong demand, finishing higher than last week.

With next week's big run of feeder cattle, consignors held back, resulting in a lower showing and an insufficient test on the market. Anticipation is high for next week, with consignors and buyers excited for what's shaping up to be a great sale!

Buyers are highly interested in cattle with good vaccination programs and a long wean, especially those with a strong respiratory vaccine protocol. Demand is strong for cattle that are well-prepared and healthy

We've got a great number of pre-consignments for 2/18/25, which helps us market them to their Fullest Potential!
